

About AIP

AIP, the American Institute of Physics, is our publishing partner. They follow the policies and procedures from the ASTM Committee on Publications under the guidance of the ASTM publications staff. AIP publishes several journals and acts as a publishing partner with many associations.

The AIP staff has sophisticated publishing databases that track all stages of the paper from receipt to final PDFs. Their administrative staff routes papers or book chapters to the appropriate journal or book editor. Those editors select appropriate reviewers and make all final judgments regarding the acceptability of the paper or book chapter.

While AIP has an excellent reputation, has shortened our average publication time, and adjusted their database and tracking procedures to accommodate our needs, they do not make any decisions regarding the quality of the papers or book chapters submitted.
