ARTICLES ON FATIGUE

References to Articles Published in 1950 Dealing With Fatigue

This is a list of references to articles published in 1950 dealing with fatigue. Brief abstracts of the articles have been included when these were readily available. The list is not exhaustive but may be sufficiently extensive to be of interest to those concerned with this field.

Both the nature and format of this list is experimental. References are generally so arranged that sheets can be readily cut apart for filing according to any desired plan. If there is sufficient interest in lists such as this, it may be possible to provide other additional lists periodically—for example, every six months.

Comments and suggestions concerning the value and format of this list would be appreciated. Correspondence should be addressed to
