

ADVANCING STANDARDS
TRANSFORMING MARKETS

Scholarships, Grants, and More

Jumpstart your professional development! Join one of the world's top standards development organizations for FREE!

$10K GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS

(Deadline: April 30)

Awarded to up-to four master's/ doctoral students annually who demonstrate awareness of ASTM International Standards

$500 PROJECT GRANTS

(Deadline: October 31)

Multiple awards for Senior Design & Capstone Design projects that utilize ASTM International Standards

WASHINGTON INTERNSHIPS FOR STUDENTS OF ENGINEERING (WISE)

(Deadline: February 1)

10-week, student-sponsored, prestigious Washington, D.C. internship focused on intersection of engineering/ technology with public policy

INDUSTRY-SPECIFIC AWARDS FROM TECHNICAL COMMITTEES

Mather Scholarship

Up to $7,500 for sophomore to graduate student interested in cement/ concrete (C09) materials technology

Mather Student Contribution Award

$1K plus travel to meeting of concrete and concrete aggregates committee (C09) for student who has developed proposed standard or research paper

Norton Memorial Scholarship Award for Women

$1K for senior or first-year graduate student interested in physical metallurgy (committee E04) or materials science

Fatigue/Fracture Student Paper Award

Honor for high quality research papers in fracture, subcritical crack growth, presented at meeting of fatigue/ fracture committee (E08)

STUDENT MEMBERS JOIN FREE!

Learn current technical information, be informed about standards work, and attend events. Take a front-row seat to the process. Network with technical experts and business leaders from around the world. Enhance your knowledge about standards before you start using them in the workplace.

Also

- Free registration to ASTM sponsored workshops and symposia
- Research and publication opportunities
- Eligibility for ASTM student awards
- Discounted first year membership after graduation

PROFESSOR OF THE YEAR AWARD

Help us honor educators and university programs that go above and beyond to develop students' knowledge of consensus standards

Deadline: August 31

Get involved in standards; contact Travis Murdock
tmurdock@astm.org | tel +1.610.832.9826